

Seal Sanctuary Quiz

	Agree	Not sure	Disagree
There are 2 types of seal found in Scottish waters
Seals have whiskers which they use to help them find their food (fish)
Grey seals are smaller than harbour seals
Our resident seals are grey seals
Seals can reduce their heart rate when diving in deep water
Harbour seal pups are born with a white fluffy coat
Seals belong to a group called the "pinnipeds"
Seals are mammals
Seals cannot see underwater
Seals need to return to the surface of the water to enable them to breathe
Harbour seal pups are born around March
Seals close their nostrils when diving
Seals cannot sleep in the water
Seal pups are born at sea
Seals like to eat herring and sand eels
A Harbour seal is the same thing as a Common seal
Female seals are larger than males
Deep Sea World works with the Scottish SPCA to rehabilitate sick or injured seal pups
Seals are vicious, and have nasty bites			